

Virginia News.

All of the delegates selected to represent Newport News in the State Convention are either in favor of primaries or pledged to support the plan.

The general opinion among many Democrats from Virginia who have visited Washington recently is that Senators Daniel and Martin; Gov. Montague and Representative Jones will be delegates-at-large to the St. Louis convention.

Hon. Harry B. Maynard, the present Congressman from Norfolk district, will have no Democratic opponent. The limit for the announcement has ended, and there is no other aspirant mentioned. The Republicans will make a sacrifice nomination.

The R. E. Lee Camp Confederate Veterans, of Hampton, and Magruder Camp, of Newport News, will give a basket picnic at Big Bethel on June 10th, to celebrate the anniversary of the battle of Big Bethel, the first land battle of the Civil War.

William Dallas Chesterman, of Richmond, died Sunday of Bright's disease, aged fifty-nine. He was a native Virginian; he entered the Confederate army when seventeen years old. In 1874 Mr. Chesterman became connected with the Richmond Dispatch, and was successively reporter, editor, and in-charge. At the time of his death he was a member of the editorial staff of the Times-Dispatch.

The contract for the Stuart monument has been let to Fred Mayhew, of New York, for $19,000. This is exclusive of the pedestal and vase. The character and cost of this part of the memorial can only be determined when it is ascertained if the city of Richmond is willing to subscribe the $20,000 necessary if the monument is erected outside of the capitol square. The State's appropriation of $10,000 is dependent upon its being located in the square.

The Democrats of Middlesex, when they elected delegates to the State Convention, heretofore published, adopted resolutions instructing the delegates to support Hon. J. R. Sears as one of the two electors at large upon the National Democratic ticket, and Hon. Wm. A. Jones and A. J. Montague as two of the four delegates to the National convention. A resolution favoring the primary plan for nomination of candidates for all offices, National, State and county, was adopted by a large majority after some discussion.

Hollywood Confederate Day was observed as usual, with a parade of the local military and an address and decoration of the graves of dead soldiers with flowers and evergreens. The orator of the day was Hon. George L. Christian, of Richmond. The famous "Stone Wall" Band, of Staunton, headed the procession to the cemetery. The day being a national holiday, the banks and public offices were closed. Business generally suspended. General Fitzhugh Lee and Governor Montague were among those present at the exercises at Hollywood.

It is possible that Virginia will shortly be producing all of the cotton used in the United States, says the Savannah News. Pittsburgh capitalists have acquired title to 1,000 acres of land in Virginia believed to contain the richest arsenic deposit in the world and machinery for its extraction is now being erected. The rock containing the arsenic is to be crushed and smelted at the mines, and the crystals refined at the same spot. The consumption of arsenic in the United States is estimated at 4,000 tons annually, of which all save about 300 tons is imported.

Thrown From a Wagon.

Mr. George K. Babcock was thrown from his wagon and severely bruised. He applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely and says it is the best liniment he ever used. Mr. Babcock is a well known citizen of North Plain, Conn. There is nothing equal to Pain Balm for sprains and bruises. It will effect a cure in one-third the time required by any other treatment. For sale by all medicine dealers.

The friends of Representative James Hay are beginning to press his claims for the position of permanent chairman of the Democratic State convention in Richmond on June 9th. Mr. Hay has been chairman of the Democratic caucus of the house of representatives for the last several Congresses, and makes an excellent presiding officer. He is one of the ablest men on the Democratic side, and is very popular.

Mayor Robert M. McLane, of Baltimore, shot and killed himself Monday afternoon in his bed room, in his home, 29 West Preston street. His bride of less than two weeks was at the time of the tragedy asleep in an adjoining room, and was awakened by the discharge of the revolver, which Mr. McLane evidently fired while standing before the mirror of the dressing case.

ACCOMAC COURT HOUSE, VA.

SATURDAY, JUNE 4, 1904.

Entered at the Postoffice at Accomac, C. H., Va., as second-class matter.

The limit for the announcement of Democratic aspirants for Congress from the First District having expired and Hon. William A. Jones being the only one who submitted his name as a candidate at the primary election to be held in July, no primary is necessary and he is again therefore the nominee of his party. This makes the eighth time he receives this honor without opposition, and it looks as if he had a lease upon the office which will only terminate at his pleasure—and this is, perhaps, as it should be. Mr. Jones has been a faithful and efficient representative and ought to be able to render us better service, if continued in office, than one with less experience in the affairs of the nation could give us.

Hon. Matthew Stanley Quay, better known as Boss Quay, and generally credited with having "run things" in Pennsylvania for the last quarter of a century according to his pleasure, is dead. That he was boss in that State, though, for years does not concern the people of the South and cannot make them forget that which was good in his life. Whatever his faults or virtues, the fact that he fought with Gorman to kill the last Federal force bill that was seriously considered by Congress and fought it to its death, is enough to make us forget his faults or cover them with a mantle of charity so broad, that we will not consider them in the estimate placed by us upon his life and character. He could not have taken this stand against his party unless there had been much good in him. He could not have thus espoused the cause of the South unless knowing it to be right, he dared to do right, whatever his constituents might think of him and however much they might criticize him for it. For this service, at least, whatever his faults, he must ever be remembered with gratitude by the people of the South.

A dispatch, sent out from Washington last Sunday, shows that partridges are great friends of the farmers, that they have reason to be thankful for the laws enacted by the different Legislatures of Virginia in recent years for their preservation and that it is to their interest to see that these laws are better enforced in the future, instead of poking fun at them and condemning them as they have done in the past. The dispatch says:

The ornithologist of the Department of Agriculture have been making an investigation of the economic value of the bob white, or partridge, as a result of which it is now announced that that bird is probably the most useful species abounding on the farms.

Fielding, observations, experiments and examinations show that it consumes large quantities of weed seeds and destroys many of the worst insect pests with which farmers contend, and yet it does not injure grain, fruit or any other crop. It is figured that from September 1st to April 30th annually in Virginia alone, the total consumption of weed seed by bob whites amounts to 573 tons. Some of these pests which it habitually destroys, the report says, are the Mexican cotton boll-worm, which damages the cotton crop more than $15,000,000 a year; the potato beetle, which cuts off $10,000,000 from the value of the potato crop; the cotton worms, which have been known to cause $30,000,000 loss in a year; the chinch bug and the Rocky Mountain locust; scurgees which leave desolation in their path and have caused losses to the extent of $100,000,000 in some years. The report urges measures to secure the preservation of the bob white in this country.

The Methodist Protestants, in their recent conference in the city of Washington, after a discussion of the question, whether the balance of political power is with the church or with "the world," arrived at the conclusion that with the united vote of the church added to the temperate vote outside of the church, the liquor question could be controlled. The conference passed resolutions to this end, especially condemning opium, liquor and tobacco.

A monument commemorating the death of John Quincy Marr, said to have been the first Confederate soldier killed in actual conflict, was unveiled at Fairfax Courthouse, Wednesday, with appropriate ceremonies. The date of Captain Marr's death was June 1, 1862, and the spot where he fell was only a few yards from the courthouse green, upon which the monument has been erected.

The new law adding 6 per cent. interest to unpaid tax bills will go into effect June 15. Interest will start from December 15, 1903. This will be added in addition to the 5 per cent. penalty which is provided by law. The unpaid dog tax bills for 1903 will on July 1 be placed in the hands of the constables for collection, entailing an increase of 25 cents on each bill, which is allowed the constables for collecting.
